The Undergraduate Assembly approved the selection of six undergraduate groups to sit on University Council during the next academic year. The groups were selected by the Nominations and Elections Committee as being groups that were mis/under-represented. The groups are:

- Asian Pacific Student Coalition
- Civic House Associates Coalition
- Lambda Alliance
- Latino Coalition
- Programs in Religious, Interfaith, and Spirituality Matters (PRISM)
- UMOJA

The UA passed a proposal regarding the implementation of a legal music subscription service that will allow Penn students to download music files legally. The proposal reflects much work that has been done over the past year with ISC and the Provost’s office and supports the selection of Ruckus as the service to implement on Penn’s campus.

The UA passed a proposal on post-season football play urging President Gutmann to take an active role in ensuring that the agenda of the Ivy Group Presidents includes a discussion regarding the ban on post-season football play in the Ivy League. Further, the UA hopes to bring the issue to University Council for a discussion that will allow various groups on campus to voice their opinion.

Spring Fling is fast approaching and the UA has been working closely with SPEC to ensure that the event will be safe and inclusive of all students. Fling Safe, a student-led initiative received over 250 applications from students who were willing to volunteer their time during fling to ensure a safe environment. Work will continue among student leaders and administration to curb the high-risk aspects of the Fling culture while maintaining the tradition of Fling.

The UA will be welcoming 40-50 delegates from the rest of the Ivy League for the Ivy Council Spring Conference that will be help at Penn the weekend of April 1st.
